Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) OR THIRTY (30) DAYS, WHICHEVER IS LONGER, FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments, see Applicant's remarks, filed 03/30/2006, with respect to the rejection(s) of claim(s) 5-7 and 10-11 under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) have been fully considered and are persuasive. Therefore, the rejection has been withdrawn. However, upon further consideration, a new ground(s) of rejection is made in view of new cited reference, Forstadius (Pub. No.: US 2003/0002504 A1).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 5-6 and 10-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Forstadius (Pub. No.: US 2003/0002504 A1) in view of Chen (US Pat. #: 5,978,775 as cited in the previous Office Action).

Regarding claims 5, 10 and 11, Forstadius teaches a bluetooth embedded terminal such as a short range RF and Object Exchange (OBEX) enabled client terminal (hereinafter called a "client") as shown in figure 1. The client comprises one of Input/Output components is preferably a Bluetooth Chip 106 (see paragraph [0033]). Forstadius further teach at least remote OBEX server(s) such as the server 399 shown in figure 3 or server 499 in figure 4. The remote server is conventional OBEX information server and comprises an embedded bluetooth function, including a bluetooth data transception processing portion for wirelessly transmitting data to the client and receiving data from the client (see paragraph [0065] and [0073]). Forstadius further teaches a method of transferring of information from the server to destinations upon receipts of requests from the clients (see paragraphs [0078]-[0087]).

It should be noticed that Forstadius fails to clearly teach the features of item selection programs for providing items selection menu to a user of the client through the client display and receiving an item selection by the user from the client at the remote server. However, Chen teaches such features in col.5, lines 13-32 and lines 48-53; col.7, lines 40-49 and col.8, lines 39-65 for a purpose of quickly retrieving and provisioning designed information data from a server to the requester.

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to incorporate the use of the features of item selection programs for providing items selection menu to a user of the client through the client display and receiving an item selection by the user from the client at the remote server, as taught by Chen, into view of Forstadius, in order to quickly retrieve and provide the desired information from a list of available information items from the remote server to the user.

Regarding claim 6, Forstadius further teaches limitations of the claim in paragraphs [0083]-[0087].

4. Claim 7 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Forstadius (Pub. No.: US 2003/0002504 A1) in view of Chen (US Pat. #: 5,978,775) as applied to claim 5 above, and further in view of Boesjes (U.S. Pat. #: 6,799,165 also cited in the previous Office Action).

Art Unit: 2614

Regarding claim 7, Forstadius and Chen, in combination, teaches all subject matters as claimed above, except for the data stored at the database is voice data. However, Boesjes teaches such features in col. 5, lines 40-51.

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to incorporate the use of the data stored at the database is voice data, as taught by Boesjes, into view of Forstadius and Chen in order to provide dynamic retrieval music data service to wireless subscribers.
